

A Life Saved

Never give up. No matter how ill you are. Ayer's Sarsaparilla has cured some terrible cases, and it will cure you.

Mr. Thos. H. Cashel, Barrel Creek, Dripstone, New South Wales, writes: "I feel it my duty to let suffering people know what a wonderful blood-purifying medicine is Ayer's Sarsaparilla. My illness began with sharp pains in the limbs, while I was handling wet wool. After a day or two I could not walk, and suffered terrible pains. My face turned nearly black, large red blotches came out all over my body, and then I became delirious. I was in two hospitals for some time, and everything was tried, but I grew weaker and weaker, and became convinced that nothing could be done for me. I had heard so much about Ayer's Sarsaparilla that I thought I would give it a trial as the last hope. After taking one bottle I thought I felt a little better. So I procured another bottle, and then another, and still another. I gradually improved, and in due time left my bed for the first time in six months. I am now in good health, and I say to every one that Ayer's Sarsaparilla saved my life."

WILL GIVE NEW PARK

Gov. Carter to Take Up McKinley Memorial Project.

The trustees of the McKinley Park Memorial fund, Messrs. Dole, Schaefer and McCandless, called on Governor Carter yesterday morning and had a long consultation with him relative to the project of turning the park over to the government.

The land for the park, which it is intended shall be a perpetual memorial to the martyred President, consists of fourteen acres on King street immediately makai of the baseball grounds, and has a fair sized lake in the center. The land, which has already been acquired, measures 500 feet on King street and about 1100 feet on the street which would form a continuation of the thoroughfare which leads to the ball park entrance. Nine acres of the tract is coral land and the lake before spoken of comprises the other five acres.

The trustees of the memorial fund have now about $8000 on hand, and it has been estimated that for $6000 the place can be graded and leveled, a foot of soil put on the ground, which is not very fertile and the walks and drives laid out. The balance of the fund could be used in building a boat house, band stand and other buildings. A feature of the new park would be a large lawn, where children could romp and play to their hearts' content, this lawn to be modeled on the children's play ground in Golden Gate Park, San Francisco.

As the trustees of the memorial fund have no assurance that the public will support the proposed project by further subscriptions, it was deemed better that the whole park scheme should be turned over to the Territorial authorities, as a part of the Territorial park system. The Territory could keep the park up, it is estimated, at small additional expense, and it would be a desirable addition to the system.

Governor Carter promised that he would consider the project, and will probably deal with it in his forthcoming message to the legislature.

A MUGWUMP VIEW OF A CARTER POLICY

Governor Carter of Hawaii, in his annual report, makes a plea for relaxation of the Chinese immigration laws. So far we are with him, holding that these laws are barbarous in principle and oppressive in their actual application. But before any friend of the Chinaman goes the whole way with the picturesque Governor of our Giant possession, let him consider what kind of Chinese immigration is wanted in Hawaii. As to that, Governor Carter expresses himself with exemplary frankness, and says he desires only "a limited number under restriction, requiring their return at the end of a given number of years and confining them entirely to these islands." These business-like words cover an old abuse—bonded coolie labor with its attendant circumstances of shiploads of temporary serfs, guarded compounds, forced labor, and fugitive-laws. In other words, Governor Carter wants for Hawaii what Lord Milner, in the Chinese Labor act, demanded for the Transvaal. If the earth is to be exploited at a speed pleasing to the great commercial nations, some such system is necessary. But it, even confirmed Imperialists will admit, is the shady side of the Imperial idea. Yet whenever the matter comes seriously before Congress we shall doubtless have an opportunist clergy fairly outdoing their British brethren in demonstrating that the coolie compound is a providential means for spreading, with the blessings of civilization, those of Christianity.—The Nation.

MEN, I'LL CURE YOU

Let any man who is weak, broken down, old and decrepit in physical weakness, full of pains and aches, gloomy, despondent and cheerless—any man who wants to be stronger and younger than he feels—let him come and tell me how he feels, and if I say that I can cure him I will forfeit $1,000 if I fail.

That is the money that I am after, because for every dollar I take I can give a thousand per cent interest. I have cured so many cases right here that I can prove my claims to you, but if that proof is not enough I'll give you the names of men right near you—where you are. Is that fair?

Most of the belts that I am selling now are to men who have been sent here by their friends whom I have cured. I think that is the best evidence that my business is a success from the standpoint of cures, as well as on the dollar side.

Just lately I have received letters of praise from these men: James P. Daniels, 709 Devadaro street, San Francisco. He was cured of a back trouble of 12 years' standing.

J. M. Gaskill, 220 Chestnut ave., Santa Cruz, Cal., who says I cured him of indigestion, Constipation, Nervousness and Lumbago from which he had suffered 15 years.

Wherever you are, I think I can give you the name of a man in your town that I have cured. Just send me your address and let me try. This is my twenty-fourth year in the business of pumping new vim into wornout humanity and I've got cures in nearly every town on the map.

Write to me. I've got a nice book on men that I'll send sealed, free, if you inclose this ad.

DR. M. G. McLAUGHLIN, 906 Market St., San Francisco.

THE COMMON LIVER FLUKE IN HAWAII.

seriously affected an improved diet together with liberal use of stimulants and tonics will in many cases build up the system and general vitality so that the animal may live through the fourth stage of the disease, when the flukes will die or wander out from the infested organs spontaneously. This treatment would include the use of coconut meal, bran and rail feeds, with daily doses of the various iron salts, walnut leaves, calamus and gentian. These remedies would only be applicable to the treatment of milch cows and fine breeding stock.

Precautionary measures:—The following preventive measures for controlling the liver-fluke disease are taken from Bulletin No. 19 of the Bureau of Animal Industry, United States Department of Agriculture:

To prevent the scattering of eggs in the fields:—In buying cattle or sheep, do not purchase any from a fluky herd, as they may introduce the disease to your farm.

If animals are fluked, send those which are most affected to the butcher and place the others on dry ground.

Destroy the livers of the slaughtered animals, or if used as food for animals (dogs, etc.) they should first be cooked in order to kill the eggs; if this precaution is not taken, the fresh eggs will pass through the intestine of the dog uninjured and be scattered over the fields.

Manure from fluky animals should never be placed upon wet ground. It is, however, not dangerous to use such manure upon dry ground.

As rabbits and hares may introduce the disease into a district, or may keep up an infection if once introduced, these animals should be kept down as much as possible. This is not always practicable. (This precaution does not apply to Hawaii in so far as rabbits and hares are concerned but is most important as regards the wild goats and swine.)

Where animals very heavily infested with flukes have pastured on a given piece of ground, some one should go over the field with a spade and spread out the patches of manure, so that it will dry more rapidly, and thus the eggs may be more quickly destroyed. A spade full of lime or dust will aid in drying up the manure patches. (Applies only to dairy herds in Hawaii. It is a good point to mention in this connection that this practice will also be fatal to the eggs of the horn-fly, deposited in the fresh manure by the adult fly.)

Manure of fluky animals should not be stored where it can drain into pastures.

To control marshy ground:—The marshes should be drained, if possible, so that the snails may be gotten rid of.

It has been noticed that sheep which pasture on salt marshes are not fluked; accordingly dressings of salt, to which lime may be added, should be spread over the pasture, as salt and lime will destroy the embryos, the encysted cercariae, and the snails.

Lime will destroy the grass for immediate use, but will in some cases be advantageous to the soil.

If the marshy ground cannot be controlled, place the animals on higher ground. (This also does not generally apply to Hawaiian conditions, since in many places the constant moisture of the higher altitudes renders the conditions ideal for the life of the snail and the development of the parasite.)

To destroy the snail.—This may be done by draining the fields, thus depriving the snails of the conditions necessary for their development, or by the free use of salt and lime.

General precautions to be taken:—It is known that salt will kill the cercariae; accordingly if salt is given to the animals they stand a better chance of escaping hepatic (fluke) infection, even if the germs are swallowed, not only because this substance kills the young flukes, but because it aids the animals in their digestion. (The value of feeding salt to the fluke-infested stock has been proved by experiments noted in this connection but which are not quoted.)

A daily allowance of dry food should be given.

If the fields are overstocked the animals will be obliged to graze very close to the ground, and thus be more liable to become infected, accordingly, in order to prevent this close grazing, fields should not be overstocked.

Animals should not be left too long upon the same pasture.

Raised water tanks should be placed in the pastures so that the herds will not be forced to drink from pools, etc. As it is difficult for snails to get into such drinking tanks, there will be little fear of infection from tanks of this sort.
